Film: Herb and Dorothy

New Yorkers Herb and Dorothy Vogel have a passion for collecting minimalist and conceptual art. They began collecting in New York City in the early 1960s when little attention was paid to artists such as Richard Tuttle and Sol LeWitt. Today the Vogel's have begun donating their pieces to museums across the United States to share their love of the arts with the public.

Discussion:

1. Why do the Vogel's collect art?
2. What type of relationships do they have with artists such as Richard Tuttle?
3. Would you consider their apartment a museum or art gallery? Why or why not?
